

DEATH'S CALL

LOUISIANA IS IN MOURNING.

. Senator McEnergy Dies Suddenly

Dies from Capital Suffering from Indigestion.

General Plans Made for Tomorrow Morning.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—United Senator Samuel Douglass Morris died at his home here this morning.

Senator McEnergy arrived from Washington yesterday morning suffering an attack of indigestion. He was sent to his home here where physicians were summoned. The Senator died somewhat after treatment, but last night his condition took a worse for the worse and early this morning lapsed into unconsciousness and shortly before 10 o'clock.

Senator McEnergy was in his seventieth year and his health had not been good for several years. His son, McEnergy, started for New Orleans on receipt of a telegram saying his father was ill.

The last term of Senator McEnergy, which was his third, would not have ended until March 3, 1915. During this time he was known as an independent Democrat, who voted frequently with the Republicans.

He was true particularly in his legislation. Throughout the last two sessions of the tariff he compromised on the question of conservation of natural resources, and was willing to make any concessions to the majority in return for favors shown to him in debates.

At times his attitude provoked some criticism from his party associates, but he never deserved this from his independent course.

The fact that Senator McEnergy was elected with almost total deafness vented him from taking an active part in debates.

Joe-President Sherman of Washington, who is the most influential man in the country, is expected to attend the funeral of the Senator McEnergy, which is to be held here at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Kearns, Foster, Dooliver, Bailey, Steele, Clay, Bradley, Johnston and other members.

ANDERS SUCCEEDS TO SENATE.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

BATON ROUGE (La.), June 28.—W. Jared V. Sanders will succeed late Senator McEnergy in the United States Senate, according to a party leader gathered here. The funeral is to be held here and the re-burial is being arranged for.

Capt. Guy Laramore will succeed Sanders.

CHICAGO, June 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Plain clothes men tonight, a complaint of Miss Marie Ruppert, and Miss Almira Wadham, members of the Chicago Young Women's Christian Association, arrested a man who gave his name as William J. Jones. He is charged with assaulting the young women and seeking a bribe.

When booked at the Police Station, search disclosed, in Jones' pockets, letters and cards bearing the name Newton Claypool, Claypool, Ind., but he was unable to locate that name.

William J. Jones is the son of of Indianapolis to Chicago.

"What will my family say if they learn of this?" was the only comment he made.

He offered a diamond ring as security for bail which was furnished by Aaron Andrews. Later he cashed a check for $400 for sale. Upon his release, he, in company with his bondsmen, went at once to the Blackstone Hotel, where the register disclosed that Newton Claypool, Claypool, Ind., is a guest.

Naval Academy Students and Women Are Missing—Boat Found Drifting.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

ANNAPOLIS (Md.), June 28.—Mrs. Nellie E. Bowyer, widow of Joseph Bowyer and daughter-in-law of John M. Bowyer, superintendent of the Naval Academy, Midshipman Griswold Thomas, of Union Point, Md., and Sherman M. Nelson, of Newport, R. I., left the Naval Academy about 11 o'clock this morning in a sail boat which was found drifting on the Severn River this afternoon.

It were portions of the clothing that had been worn by members of the party. It is believed the midshipman took Mrs. Bowyer for a bath, and attempted to teach her to swim, and at all three were drowned.

Porter Charlton Appears in New Jersey Court.

International Aspects of Case Reviewed.

Italy Has Conferred With State Department.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Porter Charlton's case now awaits the result of exchanges between the State Department at Washington and the Italian government. His counsel today, in asking that his formal arraignment be postponed, promised that no effort would be made under habeas corpus, insanity, or other proceedings to take the prisoner out of the hands of the New Jersey authorities pending the adjourned arraignment, which, after some argument, was set for July 8.

Meanwhile, it is expected that the international aspects of the case will have adjusted themselves and a decision will be reached as to whether Charlton shall be delivered to the Italian authorities on extradition proceedings.

PALE AND THINNER.

Charlton, pale and thinner than when last seen out of doors, was brought from the jail to the courthouse under escort of the warden and the sheriff, between whom he walked unmaned, shielding his face from the gaze of the curious crowd by means of a partly-opened newspaper.

He sat with eyes fixed upon the floor while his attorneys conferred with Judge Blair.

With the arrival of Gustavo di Rossi, the Italian consul representative in New York, the proceedings were opened by a motion on the part of the defense for an adjournment. Prosecutor Garven said he had no objection provided it was agreed that Charlton be kept in the Hudson County jail, and that no proceedings be instituted to take him out of the custody of the New Jersey authorities. This promise Charlton's attorneys readily made, and Judge Blair set the hearing for July 8.

DIPLOMATIC ASPECT.

Copies of the Italian evidence of Charlton's crime are in the hands of Gustavo di Rossi, the Italian consul representative. It was said also before the proceedings opened before Judge Blair in Jersey City that the New Jersey authorities also had a copy of the dispatch made by the Marquis Paolo Montecatari, chargé d'affaires of the Italian embassy at Washington, to Secretary of State Knox, on the day of Charlton's arrest, requesting the young man's extradition.

In reply the Marquis was stated to have received a note from Secretary Knox in which it was intimated that Charlton was given to Italy who would hereafter be expected to consent to the extradition of Italians who committed crimes in America and flee to Italy.

The further exchanges reported in this connection were said to have resulted in a decision to submit the Italian government to consent itself to any such proposition on the ground that an Italian penal code provision of a later date than the extradition treaty with the United States provided that no Italian subject accused of crime should be tried outside his own country.

Italy was said to have made no reply to the State department's proposal that an international treaty should take precedence over a national law.

MANILA, June 28.—Altemio Ricarte, the leader of an attempted revolution in 1896, who was released on a writ of habeas corpus yesterday, has been deported to Hongkong.

Ricarte was smuggled into this country but later was captured. When he was released he was summoned before the commanding authorities who informed him he was illegally in the country and would be deported unless he would take the oath of allegiance. This he declined to do, and was put aboard a steamer bound for Hongkong.

POLITICS IN ALASKA.

JUNEAU (Alaska) June 28.—The Republican Territorial Convention met here today with National Committee man Shackelford in control. No Wickham men are allowed to take part in the convention. The principal work of the convention will be to nominate a candidate for the succession to James Wickersham, who was elected two years ago on a Republican ticket. Two candidates were placed before the convention, E. S. Orr and Leroy Teller, both of Fairbanks.

The men under arrest are charged with the dynamiting of the empty safe and offices of the Albina Fuel Co. and the dynamiting of a grocery store at Lowell, Or. June 24, when nothing was secured, and of the blowing up of the postoffice safe at White Salmon, about a month ago, when about $400, mostly in stamps, was secured.

BEVERLY (Mass.) June 28.—When President Taft arrives at Beverly tomorrow his only public greeting will be from the Stars and Stripes, which have been ordered raised on all public buildings at sunrise each day of his stay here.

A city would be glad to show its royal spirit, but he has requested that his arrival be entirely informal.

The President is expected to arrive tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Taft and other members of the family will meet him at the station.

Late tonight the hospital reported the man resting comfortably and his chances for recovery improved.

IRRIGATION PROJECTS URGED BY CONGRESSMEN AT WHITE HOUSE.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Taft's last day in Washington prior to his departure for Beverly was a busy one up to the hour of his leaving for the summer capital late this afternoon. Many Congressional callers and conferences occupied the time between the assembling of the Cabinet for the last regular meeting in this city until fall.

Western Senators interested in the thirty-one irrigation projects in various stages of completion which may be affected by the $20,000,000 increase from the trust authorized to agree, failed to the President the committee. The latter will investigate and report on the

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President left here today to spend the next one or four months at Beverly, the summer capital of the United States.

The President's air of gaiety over his parture was accentuated by a vivid peckie.

The President's private car was attached to the Federal Express, which left out of the Union Station at 12 p.m. With the President went Secretary Norton and Assistant Secretary Foster, Capt. Archibald Butt, military aide; Dr. Barker, his physical director; several stenographers and two messengers. The rest of the White house executive force will remain here during the summer.

On the same train, although not in President's car, was Secretary Nance of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Before leaving the White House, the President called into his office all the newspaper men who have been writing for their organizations or for the daily doings about the executive office, and wished them a pleasant summer, expressing the hope that he would see them again in the fall.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Speaker Cannon visited the White House again today and said: "I have contemplated a campaign with more hope and confidence than I have the one we are about to enter. They say the people are against us. I don't believe it. There are some superficial indications of a growing opposition to the Republicans, but the judges of the situation have not, I think, gone deep enough. On our record we will win the next election."

Then he said: "I had hoped to get away pretty soon, but I find about a hundred letters to answer."

It was suggested that he might follow the example set at Oyster Bay and announce that his correspondence had become so voluminous as to make it impossible for him to answer. "If I had four times my ability, he

CHATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

O, June 28.—Rumors, insinuations and suggestions that the Johnson fight would be, might have been stopped by executive having been given a body blow.

Then Gov. Dickerson himself shifted tonight from the Governor's office to the training camp.

As every one either directly or indirectly connected with the great fight made it a point to visit Moana or Johnson's quarters during the bright afternoon. Not until all did the steady procession of cars cease and the dust of the day settle back to repose.

Richard breathed a sigh of relief when his conference with Gov. was over. He had the Governor's personal assurance that there be no interference, and was con-one will ever know," said Tex.

"I suppose I have undergone in this fight. It has seemed that from the very first there been some kind of an organization other than that of the fighters. Rumors and reports of all kinds and characters caused to injure my interests have sent out. I say as honestly as man could say it that there has no word of truth in any of it.

I played a part in the game. I taken them all as they came and nothing further than to deny.

Now, however, with the Governor's personal assurance that I feel unburdened myself of an opinion of these knockers. If I could make denunciation as strong as my feelings warrant, I would do so."

shook his head sadly while complaining the acts of these unnamed persons. "I am satisfied but it did them no good," he said.

"A Governor says the fight is to come July 4 and I guess that goes."

GOVERNOR CAME.

Gov. Dickerson has appeared ever since his arrival in town.

His conference with Richard, who was a very friendly chat, he seemed to look in on the fighters if possible see each of them at accompanied by Capt. Cox of the police, who is here with a squad of desert rangers to help in the hunt for the bandits. The government climbed into an automobile and went rattling away to subdue.

Johnson's camp, where he arrived in the afternoon, he was fortunate enough to catch the negro champion starting on the best work he has indulged in since coming to Reno.

It was probably that the Governor's mind had something to do with the writer of the spectacle furnished.

To be that as it may, Johnson did twelve rounds of fast boxing while State officials looked on.

State rounds with Al Kaufman used the programme and Johnson easily eluded the rush of his opponents by a quick cutting head body blow for Al's leads.

They circled around the ring in fast style and Johnson appeared hungry to enjoy sport of letting himself go a little.

"Kid" Cotton, the dusky sparring partner, came up next. Johnson went him with playful encouragement.

He drove the big black fighter around the ring with great good will at any point Cotton failed to protect.

In the fourth round the champion put on steam and went after Cotton as though determined to take his scalp and put him down for the count.

COTTON "ALL IN."

Cotton clinched to save himself from punishment. Jack tore himself loose with one of his surprising displays of strength. Twice he drove his left at Cotton's head with terrific speed and force. It was a "double left hook" in parlance, and it ended the bout.

Cotton, who was and would have toppled to the floor had the action not caught him and dragged him a seat.

Johnson was not ready to quit as yet, and called Monahan, whom he was dancing around for two rounds, to his aid. Monahan submitted to his fire for two more rounds, then started back to the hotel.

Cox and the three went up to Johnson's room, where they chatted for some time.

Out at Moana Springs Jim Jeffries called for him to action. Jim Corbett arrived with a bandage.

Chester Stevenson, of No. 542 South Hill street, Los Angeles, who has the manners of a Chesterfield, which fact does not injure his score.

"when he grows up." Although he is not at all acquainted in this field, he is determined to overcome his shyness for the sake of trying to acquire an education. He wants an engineering course. His father was a thirty-second degree Mason. His mother, Mrs. Stevenson, is a beautiful and clever woman, who is continuing to live in the "Angel City," as she says, in the belief that this is the place in which to secure the best education for her little flock.

A welcome caller at scholarship headquarters yesterday was Miss Ruth Ferguson, No. 1 West Thirty-sixth street, who last year won a scholarship in the Fillmore School of Music. "Oh, I wish I could be in it this year," she said, "but, you know, I was never very strong, and while I am perfectly well now, mother thinks I'd better wait, and perhaps I may go in next year." Miss Ferguson and Florence Lambert, who won scholarships in the same school, compared notes upon the fun and work of last season, and had a very happy visit together.

Ed Weller, who won a scholarship in 1908, was called at headquarters yesterday and asked about "the new and the old."

Charles Hutchinson, who has been scoring since the first, but was unknown at headquarters, came in to make acquaintance yesterday. Charles is a little boy, and although he is extremely bashful, he does not mind to let that stand in the way of his success. He is the son of C. M. Hutchinson, who was a pioneer of Los Angeles and who many years ago laid out the tract bearing his name. Charles is only 10 years old, the youngest member of the club, and has two sisters who intend to help him in his campaign. All ride horses, and they will get over the city in a hurry and their subscriptions will just "roll in." One of Charles' grandfathers was Gen. Pughman, and the other was a "forty-nineer."

Keen interest, good-natured rivalry and brisk business enterprise are the order of the day in this competition. Those who have entered are far above the average of young people—or at least that is the case with those who have visited headquarters and similar reports come from those outside places.

The territory covered is a wide one, and there is plenty of room for all to exercise their energies.

The prizes are as much as to elicit enthusiasm from all, and are, in fact, worthy of any one's interest.

They are:

IN MILK TEST.

HEALTH BOARD ASKS COUNCIL TO ENACT NEW LAW.

Will Require Lactose Fluid to Be Reduced to a Temperature of Sixty Degrees and Prohibit Mixing of Water or Condensed Milk for Reinforcement—More Authority.

A new ordinance regulating the control of the milk supply for Los Angeles has been endorsed by the Board of Health and was sent to the Council yesterday afternoon. It is largely a revision of the present measure, and its revision has been for the purpose of strengthening the hands of the officials and clarifying doubtful phraseology. But there are a number of important amendments which may yet precipitate trouble between the health department and the milk dealers.

The most drastic new provision is the one requiring all milk to be cooled to 40 degrees and kept at that temperature during the time it is taken from the animal. The present temperature permitted is 70 degrees, but this is higher than most cities have established.

As the bulk of the supply comes from dairies many miles from the city and is transported by steam and electric lines, the effect of this provision will be watched carefully.

The Board has called a special meeting of the dairymen to consider this provision, ascertaining the dairymen who complied literally with the provision and then turned his shipments over to a traction company could not be protected and that the milk might be high.

The health inspectors found it. This is because the railroad companies do not furnish refrigerator service. The Mayor thought it wrong to put such a fault in the product.

Dr. Gibson, the City Health Officer, said such a result would demonstrate inability to enforce a reasonable law and would justify an appeal to the Legislature next winter for State-wide legislation requiring proper equipment by railroads.

Dr. Charnock, who voted to adopt the proposal, said that the ordinance was not enforceable. But the Mayor switched before the meeting went far and lined up in support of it.

Along with this new provision is another that makes it a full authority to confiscate all foul, unclean or overheated milk wherever found, which, of course, empowers them to condemn all milk found at a temperature above 70 degrees.

The ordinance also provides a definition of "milk" and requires it to be pasteurized to at least 105 degrees. The old ordinance is defective in not amply describing the Pasteur process and fixing a minimum of temperature.

Strange as it may seem, the ordinance for the first time prohibits the sale of milk. Former provisions have been against the introduction of any foreign matter into milk, but the courts found that water is the basic of milk, and hence watering after milking is not functioning, for water is a foreign element.

The ordinance defines water as a foreign element. Likewise it declares evaporated and condensed milk, which have been used for years to reinforce milk and cream, foreign substances, and prohibits their mixture with fresh cream.

Another new standard fixed is a maximum of 9.5 for all solids in milk. Nothing is included relating to tuberculosis tests of dairy herds, but the board voted that its belief is such tests should be established soon. It will be provided for in a separate ordinance later, and will prevent any dairy supplying the Los Angeles market from keeping cattle afflicted with tuberculosis.

RESUBES LISSNER.

NO EXTENSION RESTRICTIONS. The effort of the Lissner Public Utilities Board to restrict the sale of all street railways franchises to the companies that build and operate them received what is believed to be the death blow in the Council yesterday.

When the request of City Attorney Nevitt for an answer from the Council to the protest of the Realty Board was read yesterday, Andrews, Washburn, O'Brien and Lissner voted in favor of an extension as applied to extensions to new subdivisions. They agreed that it would be retrogressive and impede the growth and prosperity of the city.

"It may be all very well to make the transportation companies kiss the rod," said "Uncle Jerry," but we all know that the best way to get extensions even if they are asked for in the name of real estate promoters. It is all right to apply the restriction to main lines, but it will cripple our development. I fear, to apply it to extensions."

On motion of Washburn the request was sent to the Legislation Committee, which is to consider the promises to be unfair and the Realty Board's protest will be sustained by the Council. The result will be that the City Attorney will not be able to work out a new ordinance on subject.

NEWTON MRS. SMITH.

ers what he thought of the scheme. "This woman has defied the health department for years," said he, "and it is fortunate that she has been tried before a court and a judge that would convict her."

"I know the woman myself," said the Mayor, "and I think she ought to be put out of business. She is no different from any other criminal and she has denied the authorities regaling signs and bulletins."

"Still," said Dr. Clark, "the attitude of this board may send her to prison. I would not want to vote with that as a result."

"Well, I would," said Dr. Cole. "I will do the right now." Dr. Cole told her that he would aid in sending her to prison if I could. I am ashamed that a few physicians had defended her because—well, because there was good reason for them to do so, but I feel that her punishment is well deserved."

Dr. Cole asked what the Board of Health had to do with the case.

"Nothing," said Dr. Cole, "who moved that the board do nothing that would impede sentence on the woman to the penitentiary. The Mayor put the motion and it was passed unanimously."

Many times Mrs. Smith has been before the board, and, like many midwives, and many times her home has been investigated by the health authorities. The medical profession, as represented by the health department, the profession, and frequent attempts in the city court. The impression of the health department physician for the last two years has been that worse crimes than kidnapping have been committed at her home.

OCCUPATION TAX.
LODGING-HOUSE PROTEST.

Lost sight of in the election yesterday, the lodging-house keepers met yesterday afternoon and adopted resolutions appealing to the voters to sustain the referendum on the drastic ordinance passed by the present Council.

The resolutions follow: "Whereas, a certain ordinance number 35,000, (New Series) entitled, 'An ordinance providing for licensing and regulating the carrying on of certain professions, trades, callings and occupations of the City of Los Angeles on March 15, 1910, and approved by the Mayor of said City on Los Angeles on the 29th day of March, 1910, and

"Whereas, a sufficient referendum petition was filed with the City Clerk of said city, signed by over six thousand and qualified electors thereof, protesting the carrying on of any and all professions, trades, callings and occupations carried on within the limits of said city, and to fix the amount of license tax thereon to be paid by all persons engaged in such professions, trades, callings or occupations."

"Whereas, the said proposed ordinance discriminates in favor of the great majority of callings and occupations carried on in said city and fixes an unfair and unjust license tax upon an exceedingly small number of trades, callings and occupations carried on therein, and imposes a license tax upon persons engaged in the business of conducting lodging and rooming-houses, and

"Whereas, we deem it unfair, unjust and inequitable to not include all professions, trades, callings and occupations within the said ordinance."

"Now, therefore, be it resolved: That we hereby condemn the said proposed ordinance and the existing ordinance of the City of Los Angeles relating to license taxes on the grounds that such are unfair, unjust and inequitable, and request all persons engaged in the business of conducting lodging and rooming-houses to use every honorable means to obtain the defeat of the adoption of the said proposed ordinance at the special election to be held in said City on Los Angeles on the 26th day of June, 1910, at which election the said proposed ordinance will be submitted to the electors of the said city for their approval or rejection, and we especially ask the consideration and cooperation of all fair-minded persons engaged in such professions, trades, callings and occupations."

TOMORROW'S ELECTION.

The people of Los Angeles will be treated tomorrow to one of their frequent election fiestas. These are not artistic, but are expensive. However, so long as the city is run by "reformers" we shall have to submit with as good grace as possible to these inflictions.

There are important questions to be settled at this special election, as well as some that are not so important. Perhaps the most important is that of governing the city and regulating corporations' business by the referendum fad. We have treated this bone of contention in a separate editorial. However, it may be added that the semi-public utility corporations have certainly made out a case sufficiently good to form a basis for deferring the decision and leaving it to a court which will give both sides a fair hearing, an indulgence denied the corporations by the City Council.

Another important issue is the sale of the City Hall property. We have expressed our opinion with sufficient extension and positiveness on this point. It is not necessary that any precipitate action should be taken, and to avoid this the authority to sell when the right time comes should be vested in the Council by the vote of tomorrow. The sooner the property is sold at the right price and the new home for the city government erected the better it will be for all parties. It would be well for every voter who takes trouble to go to the polls tomorrow morning to put the question to himself in the light of his own business interests. Supposing the two pieces of property were his and he were paying rent at great annual expense for other premises, would he not as quickly as possible convert his unproductive property into a productive form, have his own premises for his own use, and stop paying rent? That is just about the way the question stands about the sale of the City Hall. It may be some considerable time before the proper buyer comes along for the piece of property on Broadway, and nothing would be lost by authorizing the Council to take such steps as may be necessary to find the right purchaser. Of course no sale will be made until some one is ready to give a fair price for the property. It simply puts the matter in a shape where advantage may be taken of such opportunity.

As to the Councilmen, among the four candidates it is a pretty even toss-up, with one single exception. It would be a disgrace to this city to have Earl's man, Howton, elected to the Council again. The fine philosophers who think they were born to turn the world upside down saddled Howton on us once before, and we know with what results. May we be delivered from another burden of the same disagreeable and onerous character!

As to the other three, one (Barney Healy) is likely to be treated to what is known in political parlance as "single shooting" in order to double the vote for his election. Barney Healy, whatever his faults may be, is free from inordinate conceit and would probably be among the last persons in the city to set up the claim that he is a statesman or a saint. But if he does not stand on the same level and in the same rank with the other two statesmen seeking election, he certainly cannot be held to stand much below them. The Goo-Goos are exceedingly anxious to have Whiffen and Stewart placed in seats in the Council, an endorsement which in our opinion should go very far toward disqualifying them in the estimation of citizens.

FIGHTING THE CLIMATE.

There seems to be no doubt that it is a vast foolishness for a man, or a woman, either, to spend the better part of a lifetime fighting a bullying and brutal climate. Yet this is what the great majority of men and women in this and other countries do.

It is true, of course, that when we are young and strong, with plenty of red corpuscles in our blood, we do not much mind the biting winds of a wintry morning, but it might be true also that the task unconsciously affects both our health and our disposition. Go almost anywhere outside of California in America, and more talk will be heard concerning the weather than the talk on any other subject. It seems that forever and always the people in those places of the outlands are either cursing the weather or worrying about it.

It is not becoming for us, who were born and bred in the East, to belittle our native sections in any way, but we must admit that the East has a beastly climate. All last winter the poor folks back yonder suffered dreadfully from cold. Many a night they could not go out to attend the theaters or the churches on account of the rain, the hail or the snow. And in the mornings it was not uncommon to be compelled to dig a way from the house to the street in order to set forth to work. Now it is just the opposite. People there are dying of the heat.

Perhaps it is not exaggerating to say that the residents of our Eastern States spend more than half of their lives in an actual combat against the climatic conditions which surround them. And that's a poor way to spend half a lifetime, indeed. It is time that could well be spent to better advantage. The bright fireside is all very well in poetry, and the rain on the roof makes a fine song, but it is the Dickens to have to remain indoors so much of the time when one would rather be afield or freed in another way from the restraints of four walls.

We see no way out of it for the people of America except to move in a body to California. It might crowd things a little, 'tis true, but we have more room than is ordinarily believed. Not counting the hill slopes, the plains and the valleys, we could stow a host of people away in the canons of the mountains and set a lot more happily on the tops of the mountains themselves. And "whosoever will, let him come."

REFERENDUM TO THE COURT.

It was a riotous dream of the unthinking philosophers who devised the triple governmental infamy, recall, referendum and initiative, that the people were to set aside municipal charters and constitutions of State and nation. The people were to override the common law as well as the state law, and set at defiance all rights, human and divine, except those that came within the whims of a tyrannous majority driven by the lash of public opinion to do something they did not understand or something they disapproved of but were afraid not to favor.

There are just a few obstacles still in the way of mob rule in America.

The common law underlies even the Constitution of the United States, and no majority, however large, could ever wipe out property rights or deprive one individual in the minority of certain natural rights which society has never given up to majority, large or small.

By the initiative and the referendum, with the recall as a bludgeon to beat recalcitrant officials into obedience, it looked as if a majority of even one might set aside all constitutional provisions and the great law worked out through

WHAT PASSED?

OUGHT THEY HAD THE CITY.n Union Bosses Imagined a Vain Thing.at Was the Dicker They Made With Lissner?at Were They Handled, and Why Their Disgust?

A election tomorrow will reveal how cold has grown the love between the "Good Government" party and the labor-union bosses—time allies in an unholy bargain. One has ever known just what the dicker entered into by the serious, cold, little boss of the Goo Goo and the leaders of the labor gang, which for twenty years has been trying to break into Angeles. No one outside the circle of the "Good Government" party.

At there was such a dicker; that labor unions renewed their hope of unloosing Los Angeles consequences; that they finally let a walk out, which they didn't do a certain thing they seemed to do during the strike that they have had now, to foreseen the Goo Goo get up a party of their own, that is certain. It is recorded his.

Then Lissner began to be a political, the labor unions had been for twenty years to break into Angeles. They never had been to get in close enough to see even keyholes.

After Lissner took the field there a change. Mysterious conferences, import trouble makers began to be seen bubbling around the Good government political headquarters. Talking delegates, like Tom Fenney, made appeals to their people support Alexander.

A perfect understanding seemed to set between them.

What was this dicker? What had Lissner agreed to do for unions? What passed between them?

What was the bargain? The exact terms have never come.

Upon taking office, however, the mayor appointed to one of the most popular positions within his gift a man who was a ring-leader of the National Guard company mustered out of service for the good of the same, because of its labor-union attachments.

The Mayor was hardly seated in his official chair before the unions began making extensive preparations for the next struggle so often postponed. It was now or never to unionize Los Angeles.

Strike experts from the East were called into conference and the unions were caucused. The railroads and the iron founders were selected as the places to open what was to grow into a general sympathetic strike.

What was this time selected as the time to bring about the long-expected struggle?

What were the unions all over the United States warned that the time had come to make the final fight in Los Angeles?

What was the reason for this sudden renewal of confidence in the union which had openly announced only three years before that as well try to drown a duck by pouring water over its back as to unionize Los Angeles?

The strike came. Business men from the Goo Goo ranks called upon the Mayor and insisted upon his holding firmly to the industrial traditions of the city.

The Lissnerite authorities had at first announced that the unionists terrorists might picket. Then the indignant crowd of business men swooped down on City Hall and swore they would not let Los Angeles be held to be industrially free, politics or no politics.

Thereupon the authorities issued orders to drive the pickets off the streets. The order did not come till the pressure from the Mayor's political supporters had grown stronger than the pressure from Lissner.

Why was it that, at first, the police seemed to be somewhat in doubt as to what was expected of them?

Why did the young star of reform, City Prosecutor Guy Edson, act so firmly when prosecuting the union pickets was concerned?

Why did the police suddenly know just what to do? Why did they put a stop to picketing? Why did the importuned strike leaders give up the idea of a big sympathetic strike in disarray?

Why did the union bosses have a conference in Los Angeles this week and declare that they must have a political party of their very own?

What did they expect to get from Lissner that they failed to get? What was the vowing revenge on Lissner through their new political party?

What were the "goods" that the administration and the boss agreed to deliver? and did not?

What was the "bait"? At what rate is known that the unionists are professedly wroth and are openly cursing the Goo Goo bosses, declaring that the key to the city, which the unions got, does not fit.

SUPREME COURT
HITS PICKETS.RINGING DECISION AFFECTING LOS ANGELES CASES.

State Court of Last Resort Declares Picketing is an Interference With Rights and Must Be Prohibited—No Hope for the Laborite Bosses and They Are Desperate.

As a last resort desperate labor union bosses are now threatening to fight the injunctions granted against picketing and other illegal acts by the judges of the Superior Court. A lawyer who secured notoriety by his unsuccessful attempt to prevent three Mexican revolutionaries from standing trial in another jurisdiction, has been retained by the laborites. He has made several statements as to what he thinks the law should be as regards picketing.

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort in this State. Its decisions are binding upon all the tribunals in California. In a case exactly parallel to that of the Los Angeles iron founders, the Supreme Court has upheld in an opinion just come to hand, the principles of industrial freedom. The ideas enunciated by The Times in regard to the right of every man to be protected in his business or trade are maintained by the same judges.

The case is that of E. G. Pierson against the Stahlmen's Union of San Francisco. The laborites appealed from an injunction granted by the Superior Court of San Francisco county.

The Supreme Court says, in upholding the injunction (against picketing) "An act of boycotting which tends to impair the constitutional right of labor, by means of placing beyond moral shame and playing by intimidation upon the physical fears, is unlawful."

The inconvenience which the public may suffer by reason of the boycott lawfully conducted is in no sense a legal injury. But the public's rights are inviolate, the majority of men employed are such as are accustomed to and naturally do incite to crowds, riots and disturbances of the peace.

"As illegally interfering with his business, the employer may justly complain when the rights of his non-union employees and the rights of the public are violated."

A picket in its very nature tends to accomplish these very things. It tends and is designed by physical intimidation to deter other men from seeking employment in the places vacated by the strikers.

"It tends and is designed to drive business away from the boycotted place, not by the legitimate methods of persuasion but by the illegitimate means of physical intimidation and fear. Crowds naturally collect, disturbances of the peace are always imminent and of frequent occurrence."

"Many peaceful citizens, men and women, are always deterred by physical intimidation, entering places of business so under a boycott control. It is idle to split hairs upon so plain a proposition, and to say that the picket may consist of nothing more than a single individual peacefully endeavoring by persuasion to prevent customers from entering the boycotted places. The plain facts are always at variance with such refinements."

The Supreme Court quotes from an opinion rendered by an eastern court, and reported in 38 American Decisions.

He spoke warmly of the effective work done by Secretary Ziebold of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' and William of Garland of molestation and physical fear caused to the employer, to those whom he may have employed or who may seek employment from him and to the general public.

The boycott having employed these means for this unquestioned purpose is illegal, and a court will not seek by over-refinement and refinements to legalise the use of this unquestionable illegal instrument."

The body of the opinion was written by Justice Henshaw, Chief Justice Beatty and Justices Lorigan and Melvin concurred fully. Justice Angelot, Sloss and Shaw concurred as to the majority.

The decision is found in No. 154 of the California reports. It is evident that the injunctions of the Los Angeles judges will be sustained by the supreme Court if the laborites muster up enough audacity to dispute principles of law which are to the highest courts of the United States.

Judge Hutton issued a restraining order yesterday in behalf of the Photo Boiler and Machine Works. Other injunctions will be issued as occasion demands.

The laborites are restive. They care nothing about the welfare of the city or the continuance of industrial peace.

They openly revile the courts and all constitutional authority. It is apparent that the police may be needed at any time to quell disturbances and enforce the court's mandates.

Members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and Founders' and Employers' Association have asked the Chief of Police to be on his guard. They have represented that the laborites are treacherous and liable to blow up open places.

The situation is favorable to the employers, but the strike is not over. As long as several hundred idle unionists strike from the streets and drink heavily, there is danger to public health. The founders' and employers' will maintain their open shop at all hazards, and they expect the assistance of the police if danger threatens.

HEART'S DESIRE.
CHILDREN ARE HERS TO KEEP AND MORE TO BE ADOPTED.

Mrs. C. V. M. Wilson and Children.
Lucille is standing at the right of her mother and Vivian Lucille beside her little brother, Loren Basil Wilson, who is sitting in his mother's lap. Mrs. Wilson will adopt two of the famous quadruplets, the other two having died.

NOTLESSLY clean and fair bright married." Even the court was willing to admit that this was about as much as he could reasonably expect from any girl.

Careful investigation of all the facts concerning Mrs. Wilson's actions and conduct in the adoption of the famous quadruplets and also her care of her other three children, was made by the court and in making final disposition of the case, Judge Wilbur left the three children where they have been all the time, with Mrs. Wilson.

The latter left the court, her countenance alighted and radiant with happiness, the children smilingly sharing it with her. The splendid care that had evidently been given the little people was remarked on all sides.

Attorney Beardiley and Gould represented Mrs. Wilson, and after the disposition of this case, they announced that the last of the quadruplets would be taken care of by the members of the big crowd of women, but there was a goodly taking of male beings, and everyone talked about the "Wilson quadruplets." However, the curiosity-mongers were disappointed, Judge Wilbur closing the case in chambers before giving it up in open court.

The trend of all the evidence was very favorable to Mrs. Wilson, whose defense in court with the children was due to the claims being made that she was not their natural mother, should not be permitted to retain them in custody.

The children themselves were offered very decidedly to any such adoption. Each and all they assured Judge Beardiley that they loved their mamma, and continued to make their ready saying in an answer to the court's question, that she "wanted to stay with mama until she got plumes and a list of articles that ended with an electric iron, when Attorney Dr. A. Sturgeon appeared on the scene. Then the case began to assume complexities.

"I should think the contents of the trunk were worth about $300," Miss Gaines said.

"How much lace did you have?" asked Justice Frederickson.

"Probably about ten yards of that kind," said the witness, pointing to one of the bundles.

"Better measure it," observed the court, when the value per yard became a point of controversy.

This was the psychological moment for the appearance of an attorney for the defense. With easy grace, Attorney Sturgeon dropped into a seat beside one of the defendants.

"Got a lawyer?" queried the man in the trunk.

"Nope," replied the man in the trunk. In another minute Sturgeon was engaged and began his task by inserting strenuous objections to a question as to the value of an ostrich plume.

The ostrich that laid the eggs that hatched the bird that shed the plumes would have wept in mortification.

There were lively tilts on both sides for many minutes. The witness squirmed uneasily, the prospect of being obliged to have all her finery paraded in court, and finally the court made a temporary end to the situation by continuing the case until tomorrow for additional evidence.

Twenty Days for Smoke.
G. H. Fisher, who purloined three stories from a Boston high-class cigar store, must stay in jail twenty days for this offense and for his uncleanness of person. Sentence was passed in the Police Court yesterday.

Detectives wrestling with yards of yards of lace, a woman trying not to tell "all" that was in her trunk, an attorney stammering every time he said if there was anything else in his possession, and another attorney, seabed by any phase of the proceedings—these were but a few of the terrors in the preliminary examination of Ed Beaverson and Fred Fisher before Justice Frederickson yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. Beaverson and Fisher, according to arresting officers, Detectives Jones and Boyd, are particularly clever and successful rogues. Their scheme, it is said, was to send an expressman with a trunk on the sidewalk in front of another house, have it carted to their room on

WATCH POSLAM WORK

Results Are Seen After a Single Application.

Any one wishing to test poslam, the new skin remedy for the rapidity of its action should select a red spot or small part of a surface where the skin is extensively broken out. Poslam should be applied on the place at night and results noted in the morning by comparison with the surrounding skin, which has not been treated. Surprising results are seen particularly when poslam is used for red and inflamed noses, fever blisters, pimples, rash, scaly scalp, itching feet, sunburn, etc. The beneficial action of this new healing agent in eczema, acne, psoriasis, barber's itch, piles, etc., begins with its first application when all itching is stopped and continues unremittingly until its work is done. Cases of these troubles, of years' standing have been completely eradicated by poslam after other remedies were abandoned as ineffectual.

A special 50-cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses and this, as well as the regular $2 jar, is on sale by all druggists, particularly The Owl Drug Co.'s stores.

A sample of poslam, which will afford a convincing test, will be sent by mail, free of charge, to any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th street, New York City.

A complaint against the youth, alleging threats to kill. He said Huber had been drinking and blamed him (Martell) for alienating the affections of Mrs. Huber.

"Of course," said Deputy Dist.-Atty. McCormick when Martell took the stand yesterday afternoon, "you are afraid the defendant will do you bodily harm unless he is placed under restraint."

"Oh, no," spoke up the witness, throwing out his chest. "I'm not afraid of him, but I'm afraid on account of my family; I think he is a coward."

Huber looked at his father-in-law in silent amazement and then laughed openly.

"This man," said Martell, shaking a stern finger in the direction of the defendant, "came to my office in the German building and apologized for threatening to kill me, and the very next thing he did was to go out and shoot his wife."

Huber bit his lips hard and asked permission to speak.

"Your honor," he said, "I have quit drinking and I am at work."

"Discharged," said Justice Ross.

"Never mind what you think," began the court.

"If your honor, please," protested McCormick, "the complainant's witness had only made his position clear to me, I never would have issued the complaint."

"If the defendant does that again," remarked the court, "a complaint of disturbing the peace should be brought against him, and, if it is, the court will sentence him to a term in the City Jail."

Huber bit his lips hard and asked permission to speak.

"Your honor," he said, "I have quit drinking and I am at work."

"Discharged," said Justice Ross.

Tale of a Shirt.

Margueret will try to think up some clever method of taking off his shirt.

He was arraigned before Justice Chambers in Police Court yesterday on a charge of beating his wife. He told the court that he was a model husband, but that his wife was neglecting her duties, for she had not buttoned on the only two children he possessed. He discovered the devotional, he said, after he had put on one of the shirts, and when he called her attention to it, she spoke flippantly to him and he pulled off the garment with some violence, striking her with it. He said she only thought she had been beaten. He paid a fine of $5.

AVALON.

AVALON, June 28.—Three hundred strong, and accompanied by a drum and bugle corps, the Boys' Brigade arrived here today, prepared to stay eight days. The lads represent companies from Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pomona, Pasadena and other towns.

Today's canvas city arrivals include: T. F. Draper, San Francisco; Mrs. Barbara and family, Santa Monica; T. Hammond, Santa Monica; Mrs. H. L. Ogren, Los Angeles; Mrs. Etta E. Twenty lines for Smoke.

G. H. Fisher, who purloined three stories from a Boston high-class cigar store, must stay in jail twenty days for this offense and for his uncleanness of person. Sentence was passed in the Police Court yesterday.

Detectives wrestling with yards of yards of lace, a woman trying not to tell "all" that was in her trunk, an attorney stammering every time he said if there was anything else in his possession, and another attorney, seabed by any phase of the proceedings—these were but a few of the terrors in the preliminary examination of Ed Beaverson and Fred Fisher before Justice Frederickson yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. Beaverson and Fisher, according to arresting officers, Detectives Jones and Boyd, are particularly clever and successful rogues. Their scheme, it is said, was to send an expressman with a trunk on the sidewalk in front of another house, have it carted to their room on

D. SCHIFFMAN QUIT? 10 THE QUESTION.

He is not in sympathy with the present Municipal Administration and may be candidate for next election—New plan Transportation.

Times, No. 28, Raymond Ave.

ENA, June 29.—Why did Dr. Schiffman resign as a member of Fire, Police and Park Commissioners? This is the question every one is asking. And the answer is stated yesterday that he is not in sympathy with the present Municipal Administration and may be candidate for next election—New plan Transportation.

ber of the commission to be able to things through," said Dr.

The people and the administration are too slow. They forget the big things of great importance to the city. The Arroyo Park matter could be made the prettiest in the United States, and at an expense to the city.

He said that the city had up a lot of it for almost and is holding it at a high price. Other parties the same time to buy it, and the price of money. Then I want to use a system of beehives

all the city. It could be done great cost.

There are many parts of the city that could be used, and be attended to, but I time to do it alone. Little things, with a political seem to occupy the atten-

Council more than matters of state.

They are now razing over a ridge over the Arroyo ridge, and the best man is the Arroyo Park matter, will be one of the best in the world. It will

He stated that Dr. Schiff-man is in accord with the present policy of the administration.

He told that he has fact, he filed his resignation

before leaving for Manilla. He is a waste of time to the community.

He told several intimates that he is raded to the fight now being the managers of the city.

Minister, a wealthy mining man, Arta, has registered at the Hotel. Mr. Finletter motored to Los Angeles and reports a very busy day, one of the owners of the Bank, Company, of the Angeles.

Dr. W. F. Krueckhardt, a surgeon, medical director at the Hospital for the Insane at the Westminister for a month.

THE RICE RANCH OIL COMPANY is now earning CLOSE TO A CENT NET ON ITS ENTIRE VITALIZATION and at this rate shares may be purchased in the market at around $20.

The company have six wells, of which are now producing OVER 10,000 BARRELS MONTH, and this product is at 25 CENTS per barrel. One No. 4, is being deepened and is down 2815 feet and in broken rock the best kind of a show.

Three of the five wells have been cleaned and two more are to be cleaned.

No. 7 well is being drilled down 1200 feet.

There is every reason to believe that the production will not be less than 10,000 barrels per month. THE OIL IS 24 PER CENT.

The company has no debts, but every prospect of increasing in the near future. We may come into a large profit at any time.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

The Executive Committee of the Republican County Central Committee will hold a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the office of Braden W. Lea, chairman in room No. 220 H. W. Holman Building. The committee has enjoyed a prolonged session, but with its work taken care of it is expected that there will be no activity along the Republican line. This meeting is made necessary by the provisions of the election in the county which may be held on the last day upon which no such conventions may be held. The County Clerk, Notices were yesterday to all the members of the committee, this detail being arranged by J. J. Petermich, who stood for several years in the office. It is probable that the committee will choose his successor, as all arrange the place and date of the county convention and the appointment of delegates.

last election for this month will place tomorrow. Harvey Healy is a ballot that contains the names of candidates for the two Councilor vacancies, said names being arranged in alphabetical order. I find there is a strong disposition upon the part of Republicans irrespective of political affiliations, to be only friendly. The group that was at the convention several days ago, relative to the election of voters as "single-shot" Harvey has become quite general. Healy is the only candidate for Controller in opposition to A. B. Pardee appointed who is now holding the nomination at the hands of the people. In town and registered at the Hollister Hotel, he is rated as a Southern California man from Santa Cruz county. He was appointed to the office of State Auditor by Gov. Gillett, but the year before, Pardee, grabbed the place just the day before his term began, and gave it to Nye. His appointment in this case was made necessary by the death of Col. Colgan, who had been reelected, and died before his new term began. He is a Republican of the stately type, and doesn't seem it necessary to go about the State apologizing for his Republicanism.

Another candidate for the Republican nomination for the Assembly in the Seventy-first District is L. L. Moyer. Lissner is expected to name his committee for the Linksters this week. Dempsey continues to use the name Perry Weidner in connection with the United States Senatorial tag; but is informed by a man who ought to know that Mr. Weidner does not know any intention of entering the Al Spalding, the one-time famous baseball player, who died in San Diego, never got started. This leaves E. A. Meesner and Greenbacker as the two active candidates for the honor.

Jeff McElvane is not enjoying himself these frosty days. During his other extended and quite political career, Jeff had always told his folks "down home" in San Bernardino that he believed he could make a pardonable pride in never having made a political blunder. But he has made one, and more, and since he agreed to have the endorsement thrust upon him. Many of his old-time Republican friends have been assuring Jeff that they can't follow him into the camp of his new political friends, especially in view of the loyal support that they him in many campaigns under the banner of single-right ticket. He is finding that the candidacy of E. B. Gregory is appealing strongly to men who have hitherto stood by him, and particularly because Gregory is one of the best posted men on reality in Southern California.

If there is anybody in town who is as unsophisticated and gullible as to believe that Meyer Lissner is not the genuine blown-in-the-bottle boss of the self-styled "reform" element that proposes to rule or rule Los Angeles all over, they need to do to know the Goo Goo, to stop into the Goo Goo headquarters on the third floor of the Goo Goo building.

The "Boss" has taken personal charge of the Goo Goo campaign. In all the glory of his dictatorship, he has assumed the active management of affairs, making no further attempt at disguising the fact that he and his men, in issuing the orders for the "reformers" to take and pretend that they like.

Yesterday Lissner arrived at the headquarters in the morning, and was once more the hired hand, to consult, or telephoning to him for advice; but he would henceforth be right on track to run things.

Secretary Bent is listed for dismissal. The business men predicted that George R. Dunlop, the man "reform" from Hollywood, will see fit to tender his resignation as president of the G.O.O.

"If Dunlop doesn't resign," said a prominent Lancite, "it will only be because the chief concern of the man will be just as well to keep him as a stable horse. Anyhow, the Boss doesn't seem the attention that is attracted to his bogus "reform" pretenses."

The Boss himself had nothing to say to Dunlop. What he did have to say all times during the day was that he had orders. He made all his demands stand that he wants Whiffen and Hart elected members of the City Council.

He didn't say outright that the Utility Commission had to be made

H. Z. Osborne, W. J. Vario and others, all testifying to the worth of Standard Oil, and indicative of the constantly increasing popularity of his candidacy. Plans for campaign work for this and other Stanton clubs were discussed.

Unless the men and women engaged in trying to put liquor on the blacklist in California succeed in raising $700,000, the State will be Prohibition Party State ticket in the November election. According to an official letter issued by James H. Woerendyke, chairman of the Prohibition State Central Committee, it will cost the anti-liquor forces this sum to get on the State ticket, even if the campaign of Oakland is the only candidate for the gubernatorial nomination: M. W. Atwood of Pasadena is talked of as Lieutenant-Governor; and C. V. Sturdevant, also of Crown City, is the only man mentioned for the State Treasurer. For legislative honors, the only probable candidates that are reported are Alexander Beck of Watsonville; Prof. C. P. Mead of Oakland, and C. P. Fassett of Loomis, Placer county.

Fears are entertained, so I am informed, that the Democrats may not succeed in getting enough signatures to their nominating petitions to insure the presence of all their candidates on the official ballot in Los Angeles county. The present owners of the local Democracy are unbroken by the numerous reports received from political circles to the effect that one man in every dozen will agree to sign the full list of candidates that were put on the "state" at the late Long Beach convention. The highest number of petitions signed in any one day was seventy-six, and on some days the numbers were so small that the bosses refused to make any statement. Only six were obtained in San Pedro, one at Santa Monica, and two at Long Beach. A verification deputy that had the check to enter the Soldiers' Home with a petition headed by T. Dore Bell, who was a member of the board, turned up his job and the petitions. "I wouldn't tackle that job again for a carload of real money," said he. "People declare that I am crazy, and I am getting to believe them. No more Democratic petition business in mine."

I have found a paradise for all the "down and out" gentry. All those who find it impossible to get elected to attend conventions or become members of county committees should move at once to Precinct No. 9 of Santa Monica, and No. 19 of Long Beach. There is no question of the nomination of a single voter. Nobody residing in either of these two precincts, or if there are any residents, they are not registered or are not qualified voters. No. 19 is out on the border of Long Beach toward Wilmington, separated only by the dunes; No. 9 has been located on the Santa Monica Cason. It may be that after the August primaries Boss Lissner and his Agricultral will locate in either one or the other of these two places.

Edison Company Replies to Circular and Proves by Figures That Power Companies Do Not Send Current to Railways at a Loss and Make It Up on the Small Consumer's Bill.

In reply to a circular issued by the Good Government forces in which it is charged by Engineer Scattergood that the power companies are selling current to the street railways 22 per cent below cost and making up for it by adding the loss to the bills of the small consumer, C. S. Walton of the Edison Company last night gave out the following statement:

"In his statement Mr. Scattergood claims that the power companies are selling electric current to the railway lines at a loss of 22 per cent below the cost of manufacture and are forcing the electric light users to pay this loss, together with profit, in excess of the amount charged for the current that they themselves use."

"This is on its face false. In the first place, it would be poor business, even for companies, to carry out fully the accusation of that. In the second place, using the Edison Company as an example, the figures quoted are shown to be false. The present bill of the small consumer never could bear the additional load of 22 per cent on the transmission of power that is made by the railway companies."

"On a basis of $14,000,000 investment, with 48,000 lighting consumers, it is readily seen that the cost of installing each customer, counting the pro ratio of the generating plant and the distribution system, is more than $250."

"At this figure there is a fixed charge on each consumer per year for interest at 6 per cent of $15; for depreciation, at 5 per cent, of $12.50; and for taxes and insurance, at 1 per cent, of $1. This makes a fixed charge of $30 per year for each of the 48,000 consumers ($1,440,000)."

"Major Earley of Pasadena has stated in a public address that it requires two years' time at $1 a month for lighting charge to pay for each customer, and that the old electric machinery up to date six years ago is obsolete now. It would never do to permit a charge of one-sixth of the investment per year for depreciation."

The average consumer of the Edison company uses $20 worth of current per month. The length of time that it would require for him to pay his cost of installation, $350, can easily be estimated.

"It costs just as much to make out the bill and just as much to collect the account of the small consumer as it does to handle that of the railway company. On top of this, the railway companies use their own transmission lines, while the small consumer must have his line furnished him."

It can easily be seen that the state power companies sell their power at a loss, but he needs to pay for the installation.

THE POLITICAL
ATCH TOWER

The Executive Committee of the Republican County Central Committee will hold a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the office of Bradner W. Lee, chairman in room No. 320, H. W. Mexican Building. The committee had enjoyed a prolonged nap, but with its awakening it is expected that there will be no activity along the Republican line. This meeting will decide the provisions of the election that arrangements may be made holding a county convention July 1st upon which notice of such conventions may be filed with the County Clerk. Notices were presented to all the members of committee, the detail being added to by J. J. Petermichal, solicited as secretary for several months ago resigned office. It is probable that the committee will choose his successor, all to arrange the place and date the county convention, and the appointment of delegates.

last election for this month will place tomorrow. Barney Healy is a ballot that contains the names of candidates for the two Council positions, and is being arranged in alphabetical order. And there is a strong disposition upon part of many citizens, irrespective of political affiliations, to vote only for the "good" ticket. The good that was prevalent several days ago, relative to the "good" voter, "single-shot" Barney, has become quite general. Regarding Healy as the only right Republican among the four candidates, advocates of his election are in the advantage of voting for him thereby giving him in effect double support. Each in this way is equivalent to two. Healy's ticket will be supported, friends say, if those favorable to simply "single-shot" him.

Frank Mattison, the only aspirant the Republican nomination for Congress in opposition to A. B. Faxon, appears to be nowing the nomination at the hands of the Link-Roosters. In town registered at the Hollenbeck, Mattison comes from Santa Cruz county, is rated as a Southern Californian, and appointed to the office of State attorney by Gov. Niblack, but the previous Faxon grabbed just the day before his office expired and gave it to Nye. His appointment in this case was made necessary by the death of Collier Collier, who had been reelected, died before his term began. Mattison is a Republican of the start type, and doesn't seem to be necessary to go about the State apologizing his Republicanism.

Another candidate for the Republican nomination for the Assembly in Seventy-first District is L. L. Meyer. Lissner is expected to name finance committee for the Link-Roosters this week.

Meyer continues to use the name Perry Weidner in connection with United States Senatorial tags; but as far as the public is concerned, he knows that Mr. Weidner does not know any intention of entering the race. Al Spaulding, the one-time baseball tower, now a resident of San Diego, never got started. This leaves E. A. Messer and Greenbacker as the two active candidates for the honor.

Jeff McElvaine is not enjoying himself these frosty days. During his rather extended and quite successful political career, Jeff had always told the folks "down home" in San Bernardino that he believed he could make a pardonable mistake in never having made a political blunder. But he doesn't make this claim any more, not since he agreed to have the L. R. endorsement thrust upon him. Many of his old-time Republican friends are now assuring Jeff that they can't follow him in the cause of his new political friends, especially in view of the loyal support that they gave him in many campaigns under the banner of straight Republicanism. He is finding that the candidacy of E. B. Gregory is appealing strongly to men, and particularly to those Gregory is one of the best posted men for real valuations in Southern California.

If there is anybody in town who is unsophisticated and gullible as to believe that Meyer Lissner is not the self-styled "reform" element that proposes to rule or ruin Los Angeles, all that they need to do to know the truth, is to step into the Goo Goo headquarters on the third floor of the big building.

The "Boss" has taken personal charge of his campaign. In all the story of his dictatorship, he has assumed the active management of affairs, making no further attempt at disguising the fact that he, and he alone, is issuing the orders for the "reformers" to take and pretend that Yesterday Lissner arrived at the headquarters early in the morning, and it once made the hired help understand that there was to be no more tomfoolery, or telephoning to him for advice, or writing to him for advice, or that he would henceforth be right on track to run things.

Secretary Burton is slated for dismissal July 1st, and the wisest of the "Boss's" lieutenants predict that George R. Dunlop, the great "reformer" from Hollywood, will see fit to tender his resignation as president of G. O. C.

"If Dunlop doesn't resign," said a unnoticed Lissnerite, "it will only be because the chief concludes that it will just as well to keep him as a stalking horse. Anyhow, the Boss doesn't like the attention that is attracted to his bogie "reform" pretenses."

The Boss seems to be trying to say outsiders. What he did have to say all times during the day was in the nature of orders. He made all hands understand that he wants Whiffen and just elected members of the City. He didn't say outright that Utilities Commission had

H. Z. Osborne, W. J. Vareil and others, all testifying to the worth of Stanton, and indicative of the constantly increasing popularity of his candidacy. Plans for campaign work for this and other Stanton clubs were discussed.

Unless the men and women engaged in trying to put liquor on the blacklist in California succeed in raising $700 by July 15, there will be no Prohibition Party State ticket in the field in the next election. According to an official letter issued by James H. Woerendy, chairman of the Prohibition State Central Committee, it will cost the anti-booze forces this sum to get on the official ballot.

"The Lincoln-Roosevelt League" says Chairman Woerendy, "is using the full force of their organization in every county to help us in our efforts to the purpose of turning our fellows to the support of the questionable 'reform' element of the Republican party."

A meeting of the Prohibition State Central Committee will be held in this city next Friday. Few candidates have been named, but the names put on the State ticket, even if the campaign fund is subscribed. Dr. C. P. Moore of Oakland is the only candidate for the gubernatorial nomination; M. W. Atwood of Pasadena is talked of as Lieutenant Governor; and C. V. Sturman, also of Crown City, is the only man mentioned for the State Treasurer. For legislative honors, the only probable candidates thus far reported are Alexander Beck of Watsonville; Prof. C. F. Mead of Oakland, and C. P. Fassett of Loomis, Placer county.

Fears are entertained, so I am informed, that the Democrats may not succeed in getting enough signatures to their nominating petitions to insure the presence of all their candidates on the ballot. The present owners of the local Democracy are unnerved by the numerous reports received from petition circulators to the effect that only one man in every dozen will agree to sign the full list of candidates that were put on the "state" at the late Long Beach convention. The signatures of petitioners signed in any one day was seventy-six, and on some days the number was so small that the bosses refused to make any statement. All those who find it impossible to get elected to attend conventions or become members of county committees should move in one of the precincts No. 9 of Santa Monica, and No. 19 of Long Beach, neither of which is in possession of a solitary voter. Nobody resides in either of these two precincts, or if there are any residents, they are not registered, or are not qualified voters. No. 19 is out in the border of Long Beach toward Washington, separated only by the sand dunes; No. 9 has to be located through Santa Monica Cañon. It may be that after the August primaries Boss Lissner and his Aquinaldos will locate in either one or the other of these two.
